Ihaven'treadTouchingtheVoid,butIlooselyknowthestory,andapparently The Beckoning enjoyed the action and world building in this novel. I think this is one of the reasons I enjoyed this book so much- because human emotions seem to make so much more sense in these more extreme environments, and you can see that in many ways we're designed for coping with the immediate risk and dangers that activities like climbing throw at us, whereas in the "real world" everything is so drawn out, anxiety goes on for hours, days, weeks, The Beckoning over risks that aren't life and death they are just ongoing worries.
